The Court of Justice has already determined the applicability of the Belgian legislation on the subject of compensating military personnel in the Belgian sector for the retirement pay value of a rank equivalent to 30,000 Euro. The Court of Appeal of the Grand Duchy of Luxembourg, on the basis of Article 126(2) of the Rome Statute of the International Criminal Court (C.A. Ct. Rome, 13 July 2017, ICTY Case SC 4, Preliminary consideration, para. 29), adopted an interim measure which stipulates that, starting from 1 July 2018, military personnel serving in the rank of lieutenant and above in the ranks of the Luxembourg Armed Forces will be compensated for their retirement pay for the period when they were in service in the Belgian sector from 1 January 2016 until December 2017. The compensation shall be granted in accordance with the rules adopted by the Grand Ducal Police (Ordonnance 71 of 21 October 2000) and the rules of the Administration of Pay, Wages and Salaries at the Ministry of the Armed Forces (Ordonnance L 40 of 15 May 2002), both annexed to the Law on Military Pay, on the basis of the Retirement Pay Scale of the Army Corps of Engineers of the Luxembourg Armed Forces, as amended on 16 May 2009 (L 840 of 30 May 2009). The compensation shall be paid in the form of the retirement pay (as at the date of retirement) at the pay-grade of the rank for the service time of the military personnel. The Court of Appeal has also decided to recall its decision (Case 20) decided on 15 April 2017, insofar as it held that military personnel serving in the ranks of the Belgian Armed Forces in the Belgian sector, at the date of submission of their request for compensation, remained, at the same time, service members of the Grand Ducal Armed Forces and, on the basis of Article 125(2) of the Rome Statute, that the special ad

Alternative splicing and phosphorylation of the ATP-regulated K+ channel (KATP) encoded by sulfonylurea receptor 1 (SUR1). An assessment by targeted mutation. Voltage-gated K+ channels form key components of excitable tissues that have pore-forming K+ selective (K+) permeability pathways and a variety of regulatory (R) subunits. Channels have been subclassified into two groups: those that are inhibited and those that are activated by MgATP2-, MgATP/ADP-ribose- and guanosine-5'-triphosphate (GTP)-binding proteins. The effector subunit for MgATP2-dependent channels is a G protein-coupled receptor termed the sulfonylurea receptor. This protein is a member of the inward rectifier family of channels. In this report, we show that the splice variant 1 of the gene encoding SUR1 (SUR1-1) is present in all tissues analyzed, whereas splice variant 2 (SUR1-2) is not expressed in normal adult mouse tissues. We also present evidence that SUR1-1 is a novel kinase that modifies the function of the sulfonylurea receptor. We have used an over-expressed form of SUR1 to coexpress with the pancreatic K+ channel in Xenopus oocytes and analyzed the effect of MgATP. MgATP enhanced the K+ permeability of these channels. MgATP increased the current of K+ channels with SUR1-1 without affecting the current of channels that were expressed with SUR1-2. The increase in channel current was prevented by pretreatment of the channels with [gamma-32P]MgATP and by inclusion of the specific antagonist N-benzyl-3-(p-azidophenyl)propionamidine.Advertisement No decision made on Zagreb-Rijeka route Share Shares Copy Link Copy The Croatians and Slovaks who helped build the largest motorway in the world in one of Europe's largest lakes, a new bar and a changing of the guard at the Miljacka bridge for Olympic sailing and motor racing in Rijeka are among the first natural tourist sights the region promises to offer.
