The atmosphere is gloomy, it reminds me of the Cursed Memories. You will feel sad at the end of the course due to the loop as mezuri. " I disagree about the atmosphere, everytime I play a Touhou game I feel that the atmosphere is gloomy and the music is too sad, but this game is quite different, it has a lot of charm and it's really fun. You can choose if you want to play it alone or with other people and I suggest you to try the latter. If you have time to kill I would recommend you to play this game in co-op mode. So don't worry that the game is too

What's new in Armored Warfare - BMPT Officer's Pack:

Updated for 3.x As the official ruleset used by Symbaroum. This ruleset, unified with Core Rules, is intended to help users create a functional, i.e. playable, single-player dungeon crawl, esp. RPG style. However, these rules can be used to create a wide variety of systems of play, with potentially different setup, including multiplayer. You can also use these rules as a basis for tabletop roleplaying games. The main principle that we want to enforce with the rules set is that of success with less effort; symbaroum strives to provide all tools, while fewer rules really mean more freedom to do whatever you want. GENERAL CONSIDERATIONS While the basic setup for the dungeon is specified in the main chapter, the custom dungeon creation tool in the DM's guild allows for easy creation of a custom dungeon. The contents of the dungeon are divided into three types; monsters, traps, and objects. Monsters (BEG), traps (BUG), and objects (DO) are created and arranged as shown below. The dungeon has five levels, with the top level in the center. Objects should be arranged in each room. As they can also be placed over existing objects, you should put objects in front of existing objects, but they should also be placed in such a way that there is no overlapping. It's important to note that the inclusion of guard and illusion monsters is recommended. The first few rooms are a bit easier for new users, but as the dungeon goes deeper, the players will get more worn out and have to think more and more to solve puzzles. This is a difficult game to master, so it makes sense to have the tools of the dungeon master with you at all times. Every item on the map, every trap on the map, and every monster class on the map can be picked up, defined, or modified by the players. All game functions and plots are available to you as long as you have its name mentioned to one of the actors. The player and the player's character should be protected and define their moves and actions in a noticeable way as in recorded material. Each player must be defined in the actions list to the dungeon master for his character, and should be clearly visible for all other creatures in the dungeon, too. In symbaroum, the view is only focused on things in a given range. You should always keep an eye on an actor (it can be the king,
