Written by LAURENCE X. WANG, A course in fuzzy systems and control is a unique course designed to prepare the students for the theory and applications of fuzzy logic and control,with emphasis on solutions with various fuzziness levels. The course is designed as a . Wang A Course In Fuzzy Systems And Control Solution By Laurence X. A conventional post (CS) was found to be displaced on radiographs of an endodontically treated tooth. Three-dimensional (3D) digital images were generated from a specialized stereo camera, and the 3D reconstruction of the endodontically treated tooth was obtained from the 3D digital images. The tomographic evaluation of this image demonstrates clear communication between the periapical lesion and the root canal space; however, no communication between the roots was revealed. This reconstruction technique is shown to be a suitable approach to revealing the complex anatomy of teeth with an apical lesion. With the increase of the internet usage, people are becoming increasingly connected to each other through the internet. In fact, one of the benefits of internet usage is to make things easier and more convenient for people in their daily lives. One such convenience is saved searching which may take a significant amount of time when one desires to find similar products on the internet. The problem with saved searching is that it requires a search engine to be capable of finding items in different parts of the world and finding them extremely fast. In order to do so, search engines have to be updated on a day to day basis to ensure that they are continually searching for the best sites. The problem is that search engines need to be updated constantly and have all the necessary data to search the web. Furthermore, search engines need to
