It's safe to say they would rather not have to talk about it, but the Democratic National Committee has opened the primary process for the next presidential candidate. Thirty-one states, including Iowa, New Hampshire, Nevada, South Carolina and some states who are still thinking about participating, will likely decide who moves on to the next round of the primaries. In the Minnesota primary on Feb. 1, which is when the Minnesota party hosts its caucuses, there are reports that a majority of people say they will vote for Chris Dodd, the former Democratic senator from 0cc13bf012
